Still from the cons, it's a good game for a cheap 39p game. All negative reviews practically say the same thing...

'Crap steering, Dumb AI, but the game has potential'.

Potential? Potential? What you mean like a special child that's been dropped on its head potential? You mean special like the eraser at the back of a pencil? I don't care how good the graphics might look, it's just like placing makeup on a backside instead of a face...

Stop encouraging the developer. This game DOES NOT have potential. He has even now made Nash Racing2. Stop it reviewers. Stop giving him encouragement. Stop it now before he gives us a prequel like it\u2019s a George Lucas production.

The problems?

Call me the 'Stig'. I can do every level in 00:00.01. I kid you not. I'm a Nash master. Simply press forward and spacebar when a map loads, do a lap and then press start race and go over the finish line when the countdown gets to one. Talk about an oversight... How could you miss that one? Yet not even many reviewers make reference to that beauty. http:\/\/steamcommunity.com\/sharedfiles\/filedetails\/?id=1347492575 Controls suck. So what does the developer do? He gives us turbo as well. Press shift and just shut your eyes.

Into self-mutilation? Go to the free roam map and just wait under the dropping hammers. When your happy with your new pummelled look, go to garage and see it up-close. http:\/\/steamcommunity.com\/sharedfiles\/filedetails\/?id=1347492191 and the list goes on... Racing cars that forgot to leave their handbrake on when parked on a hill, time trials that begin with a negative countdown, being able to roll your car through the map, the sound of the cars constantly being behind you when in reality they are actually half a lap behind you.

'Race track' has invisible wall joints, sometimes the AI hit them at full speed and do 10,000 somersaults in the air on their way to Mars.

The only way the developer could improve this game is if he went suddenly missing one day...

http:\/\/store.steampowered.com\/curator\/6843548\/. this game needs still alot of development current state is not recommendable to buy. One of the Wost Games i Ever Play.

Another bad joke on Steam.

- controls
- graphics
- tons of bugs
- damage model
- small tracks
- optimization
- AI. Ridiculous game. I bought this game for to support of the potential of game. (1.04TL ~ 0,29$)
I hope developers improve the game, i don't expect from the game to be like NFS or Dirt series but we should able to still play.
At least, it should be more realistic physics.

Note for the developers: I know your first goal is realistic physics and graphics but after this goal, you should improve the xbox360 controller settings i think. (And you can change the intro little bit, lel)

Thanks and good luck!. Game is good for that money, but need more optimalization.
Actually there's not any difference when I'm change settings from low to ultra.
Intel i3 2120, 6GB RAM, GeForce 450GTS and game runs on 20 fps.. Needs major improvement
